The Integrated Database Project of the Oriental Institute (OI) has two primary goals:

1. To provide the highest quality system for the internal management of the collections in our care.
2. To provide public access to information about the diverse research and object-based collections at the Institute.

Public access to the collections of the OI is provided by the Search Our Collections website. This website is continually updated with improvements in functionality as well as new metadata from departments across the OI. Extensive documentation (over 1,000,000 records) is currently available from the Museum Collection, Research Archives Library, Museum Archives, Photographic Archives, and the Center for Ancient Middle Eastern Landscapes (CAMEL). Information about these materials is linked together and exposed through hyperlinks within the site.
