

MEMBERSHIP AND DEVELOPMENT

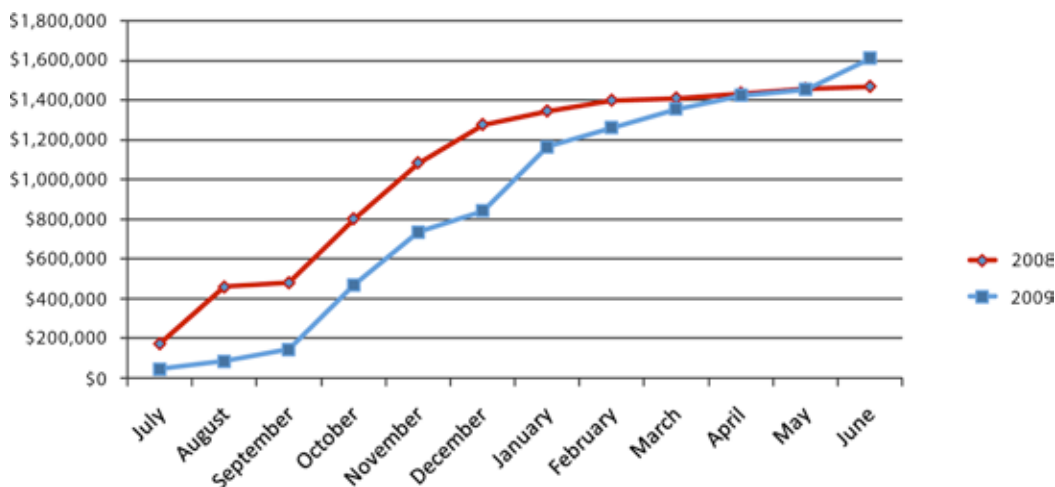

DEVELOPMENT

Steve Camp

The Development and Membership offices of the Oriental Institute experienced a number of changes this past year. Monica Witczak, our Development Director who served the Oriental Institute for over four years, left to pursue another career track this past November and Sarah Sapperstein, our Membership Coordinator, accepted another position within the University at the end of June. I want to thank both Monica and Sarah for their service to the Oriental Institute and its Members and wish them the very best in their new careers.

During this period of transition, we decided to re-evaluate our development and membership functions to determine if we are being efficient and productive in our efforts to serve Members and maintain and grow our core group of supporters in these difficult economic times. As with every other unit on campus, the Oriental Institute has experienced significant pressure from the University to reduce costs and we have submitted a budget that meets our target reductions. These recent changes lead us to this re-evaluation and we are close to having a viable restructuring plan as we begin the new fiscal year.

A review of our 2008–2009 fund-raising efforts presents a pleasantly surprising picture. The following chart represents total gift amounts to the Oriental Institute this past fiscal year compared to the previous fiscal year.

Oriental Institute Gift Fund-raising 2008 vs. 2009

Per the chart above, gifts to the Oriental Institute increased by 9.8 percent, from $1,469,255 in 2008 to $1,613,412 in 2009, even though the economic crisis began in the middle of fiscal year 2009. We believe this is a clear indication of the devotion and generosity of our supporters. A very challenging goal set by the Director is to continue to build on this success as the economy recovers.

DEVELOPMENT

Federal and non-federal grants also play a critical role in our overall funding. We continued to see strong results in this area, with faculty receiving major awards from the Mellon Foundation ($700,000), the National Endowment for the Humanities ($950,000), and the National Science Foundation ($350,000), among others. These awards show that the Oriental Institute is highly regarded by peers in the field and by national institutions of philanthropy and granting agencies.

In summary, we are very excited about the opportunities that lie ahead and wish to thank the members of our Visiting Committee Development Subcommittee, Toni Smith, Carlotta Maher, Neil King, Arthur Herbst, O. J. Sopranos, and former members Roger Nelson and Gretel Braidwood for all their guidance over the past year. In addition, we look forward to welcoming Andrea Dudek to the Development Subcommittee for the coming year.

Lastly, I would like to thank Kaye Oberhausen for stepping in with a great deal of energy and enthusiasm as we work our way through this transition period and a special thank-you to Maria Krasinski for coming back to the Oriental Institute on an interim basis as Membership Coordinator. She has helped us keep our Membership Office running during the transition and put us in a good position to better serve our membership going forward.

From all of us at the Oriental Institute, we thank all our donors and Members who provide the support that keeps the Institute at the forefront of research and education in the history of the ancient Near East.

The Research Endowment Campaign

The Research Endowment Campaign, launched in 2006, finished the third year of a five-year campaign to increase funding for the core research areas of the Oriental Institute, providing a stable and predictable level of support for this work. The campaign targets five key areas that require long-term financial resources:

Research Archives This endowment supports the Oriental Institute's Research Archives. Containing more than 45,000 volumes, it is the foremost library on the ancient Near East in the Western Hemisphere.

Technology This endowment supports the growing technological and computing needs of the Institute.

Ancient Languages This endowment supports the writing of dictionaries such as the Chicago Assyrian Dictionary, the Chicago Hittite Dictionary, and the Chicago Demotic Dictionary.

Archaeological Fieldwork This endowment supports current and future excavations in the Middle East.

Museum Holdings and Special Collections This endowment supports visiting scholars who research Museum holdings as well as the production of Museum special exhibits.

As of the end of June 2009, we are very pleased to announce that the campaign has exceeded its original three-million-dollar target; however, not all the goals for the individual endowments were funded. A list of major donors to the campaign includes:

Planned Gifts

We are most grateful to those individuals who have made a gift by designating the Oriental Institute as the beneficiary of a life income gift or bequest. Gifts such as these provide expendable and endowed support for a wide variety of projects across all areas of the Institute. In the past year, we have received planned gifts from the following donors:

The Trust Estate of William Rowland Boyd
 The Trust Estate of Alwin C. Carus
 The Alwin C. Carus Mineral Trust
 The Trust Estate of Marion Cowan
 The Trust Estate of Erica Reiner
 The Trust Estate of Nancy M. Sargis
