EDWARD WENTE'S chapter on the genealogies of the New Kingdom royal families for James Harris's X-ray Atlas of the Royal Mummies is complete. He continues to work at estimating the ages at which his subjects died, using the textual and representational evidence quite apart from the pathological evidence of the mummies. His well-known Queen Tiye findings complement his edition of the texts from the tomb of her steward Kheruef, prepared for his work with the Epigraphic Survey.
